... "I was also informed by Booksellers that my Treatise on the West Indies would meet with little encouragement from the public, as the war being ended few would feel any interest about them. I have completed the work therefore in case it may be of use to my own government."—Manuscript Note on fly-leaf, signed A. W. Light, late Lt.-Col. 25. Regt.

Probably unique, as the work was apparently never published.

The Author, who served in the West Indies, 1809 to 1815, offers many suggestions for the construction of healthy barracks, the general improvement of the men's health, and the utilisation of land.

Entertainingly written, with erratic spelling.

The Journal commences, "Burnt Island Road, on Board the Jamaica Packet." The writer describes the Scottish emigrants, two bad storms and the dismasting of the ship. At St. John's, Antigua, "we have seen every Person of fashion, and our Toilet is loaded with Cards of invitation." "Col. Martine . . . the most delightful character I have ever met, the Father of Antigua." Stayed on the Eleonora Estate, the property of Dr. Dunbar: visited Mr. Freeman. At St. Kitts (Basseterre) she stayed with Lady Isabella and Mr. Hamilton, the Attorney General of the Leeward Is. and met all the people of the island. On 22nd March, 1775, she reached Shawfield, her brother's estate on a branch of the River Cape Fear, 16 miles from Wilmington, N. Carolina. She experienced the breaking out of the War of Independence, the clash between Loyalist and Rebel, the flight of the Governor, Mr. Martin, and his family, a review of Rebels ("Six hundred men in their Shirts and Trousers"), and only escaped out of the country with difficulty.

Another copy of this manuscript is in the British Museum, and from it was printed "Journal of a Lady of Quality," as noted hereunder, the MS. itself taking up 234 pp. of print. The present copy, lately the property of Mr. Vere L. Oliver, is referred to on pp. 3 and 4 of the Introduction, and is in the same handwriting as the B.M. Manuscript.

These papers deal with a state of affairs which caused great indignation in this country. A full account will be found in Lecky's "England in the 18th Century," Vol. I., ch. iii.

The papers include the Evidences of Captains and Owners respecting the seizure of ship and the cruel treatment of the crews; the Report of the Committee of the House of Commons appointed to consider the petitions of divers merchants trading to the W. Indies and America, complaining of the depredations of the Spaniards, the Committee finds that the petitioners have Included is a list of the Governors and the names of inhabitants in 1638 possessing more than 10 acres of land.

This volume is of special interest as it was presented to Charles Pinfold, Governor of Barbados, by Wm. Duke, Clerk of the Assembly, on the 9th Aug., 1756. There is a MS. note to this effect, signed "C. P.," and a note of presentation in the handwriting, presumably, of Wm. Duke. There are also other pages of MS. notes in the same writing relating to Henry Grenville and A. Popple, both former Governors.

- 317 Oliver (Vere L., Author of "Caribbeana") MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS in the CHURCHES and CHURCHYARDS of BARBADOS, with map and plan of Bridgetown, roy. 8vo., cl., 1915 10s

No less than 1472 inscriptions and wall tablets are given, dating from 1626, and the Index of over 3,000 names includes many famous in the history of the island.

- 318 Phillips (Thos., Commander) VOYAGE in the "HANNIBAL," 1693-94, to GUINEY, and forward to Barbados, with a Cursory Account of the Country (Africa, Barbados, Slave Trade, &c.), folio, hf. cl. (excerpt Churchill's Voyages, 1746) 8s

The Major-General apparently found the military in a bad state of discipline on his arrival. His censures and reprimands are frequent during the first year, chiefly of the officers. He is constantly attempting to alleviate the conditions of the privates.

“The Maj.-Gen. has observed with regret the number of men of the Regt. [7th West India] under your command in Hospital in consequence of being punished . . . recommend you to resort to corporal punishment as seldom as possible,” &c. Severe reprimand to Maj. Clermont for improper stoppages from his men. Censure for over-chargal of private of 6th Batt., 60th Regt., for pair of gaiters supplied. Privates authorized to require an explanation of their accompits in a respectful manner. If rate of messing is such as to allow the junior officers to belong to it, &c., “Lt.-Col. Nasmyth and Maj. Clermont . . . total incapacity for command,” &c.

Some of the letters to Maj.-Gen. Hodgson are signed by Lord Palmerston, Lord Bathurst, and other important statesmen.

- 474 Eyre (Governor) and the Jamaica Rebellion.—The MYTH of GOVERNOR EYRE, by Lord Olivier, 8vo., cl., 1933 (just pubd.) 15s

No event in a British Colony during the last hundred years aroused so much excitement and public controversy as the so-called "Jamaica Rebellion" of 1865, which occurred under the administration of Governor Eyre. Under martial law, in punishment for the outbreak, nearly 600 unarmed and unresisting peasants were shot or hanged, about the same number flogged, and more than 1000 of their houses destroyed by fire. Lord Olivier, who spent ten years of his official life in Jamaica, has given, for the first time, the true account of that outbreak of violence among a normally peaceable peasantry. Carlyle's conclusion that Eyre was "a just, humane, valiant man, faithful to his trusts everywhere and with no ordinary faculty for executing them," which became the accepted view, is turned inside out by this remarkable book.

- 475 ——— CARLYLE (Thomas) AUTOGRAPH LETTER SIGNED, 4 pp., 8vo., Chelsea, 3 Sept., 1866, to Charles Kingsley, concerning Governor E. J. Eyre and the Jamaica Rebellion £8

"From the first time I got acct. of Gov. Eyre's proceedings in the Jamaica outbreak, my clear feeling was, that his conduct had been that of a faithful, valiant, wise and manful representative of the English Govt. in an affair wch., had he not been such, wd. have excelled in horror . . . most things one can well conceive as happening above ground in this Earth—and in fact, from all I had learned of Eyre then or before, my notion wd. have been, had my post been that of English King to appoint Eyre Dictator over Jamaica for the next 25 years . . .

Meanwhile, is not the practical English of all this 'I will join the Eyre [Defence] Comtte., and personally appear among them, Wedny. next at 3 p.m. if Heaven permit?' We are a poor Comtte. and do need help. Froude has been written to, and is much wanted . . . Ruskin is coming full of holy zeal."
